PAY

This median annual wage for business and financial occupations was $65,710 in May 2015, which was higher than the median annual wage for all occupations of $36,200.

JOB OUTLOOK

Employment of business and financial operations occupations is projected to grow 8 percent from 2014 to 2024, about as fast as the average for all occupations, adding about 632,400 new jobs. A stronger regulatory environment is driving the demand for more accountants and auditors who prepare and examine financial documents.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Business Administration Associate of Arts and Associate of Applied Science degree programs are suitable for students presently employed in business and industry and seeking advancement, those seeking such a position immediately upon graduation and those anticipating transfer to a four-year institution. The student will complete core liberal arts and business courses. Those anticipating transfer should coordinate their studies with the transfer policies of the institutions to which they intend to transfer. In some instances, these students may find it more advantageous to pursue a more general associate degree.

WHAT DO BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION GRADUATES DO?

An associate's degree in business administration can lead to a career in customer services, sales, accounting or an office job. Firms seek Business Generalists for positions requiring knowledge of many business activities rather than specialization in a single area.

WHERE DO THEY WORK?

Business Administration Graduates are employed in many industries, including local fast-food franchises, manufacturing industries, international conglomerates, non-profit organizations, educational organizations, and local community businesses.
