Wayne County Community College District’s Honor Guard was established in 2010. It is an all volunteer unit. The Honor Guard participates in many college ceremonies including commencement exercises.

The Honor Guard is a part of the Uniformed Patrol Division, and is comprised of certified police authority officers and offers such services as color guards, posting of colors and parades. The Honor Guard strives to bring pride, honor and dignity not only to Wayne County Community College District, but also to the calling of police service.

The Honor Guard is under the direction and command of Lieutenant Stephen Major and Sergeant Sandra Griffin. Honor Guard positions are voluntary.

Applicants must pass a rigorous try-out examination. Members are required to maintain proper grooming and fitness. They must be proficient in drill, flag folding, casket guard, presentation of colors, parade march and other duties appropriate to their position.

Members of the Honor Guard are trained in drill and ceremony according to national standards and wear a distinctive Honor Guard uniform.
