and Religious Diversity of our Friends and Neighbors*

FIRST SPEAKER IN THE SERIES:

Nuri Muhammad

For the month of April, we will feature Nuri Muhammad, who will challenge his audience to accept responsibility for their behavior. He will also help audience see how their present actions are either the building blocks for the future or its destruction. In addition he will share his personal experiences from his youth and how he came to understand that self-improvement is the basis for community development.

The series is aimed at encouraging an open dialogue, education and awareness of the many benefits that we as Americans experience as a result of being such a diverse community. Speakers will share information, facilitate discussion and guide participants in an exchange of information to learn more about how we all benefit from the various customs and traditions of our friends, neighbors and family members.
