Robyn Scott-Benson is a 2022 WCCCD graduate who graduated with her CDL Class A. Robyn worked for an airline and decided to check if the WCAA (Wayne County Airport Authority) was hiring. With her being a new driver without any experience, WCAA gave her a chance to work with them as a field maintenance worker. She took full advantage of the opportunity to work and learn about more equipment, from snow plows to front loaders, dump trucks, zero turns, and mobile sweepers.

Captain Keiara Younger

Dear Chief Livadic:

I am writing to acknowledge the exemplary work and dedication recently demonstrated by members of your staff.

On April 20, 2023, Ms. Christine McPharlin conducted a Law Enforcement Information Network/National Crime Information Center audit of the WCCCD Police Authority. Capt. Keiara Younger, your agency's Terminal Agency Coordinator, was with Ms. McPharlin throughout the audit process. The responsibility of managing and ensuring the accuracy, security, and integrity of criminal justice information systems is a shared responsibility of all federal, state and local agencies. It was evident to Ms. McPharlin that the WCCCD Police Authority and its staff do embrace this management responsibility and philosophy.

Ms. McPharlin commented on how well prepared your staff was. All requested documents and records were readily available, up to date, and accurate. Overall, the findings showed that your worksite was compliant in all the audit components assessed. This is a remarkable accomplishment and I feel that you and your staff should be recognized and congratulated for their hard work and efforts.

Please extend to your staff my appreciation for a job well done and for all that they do in the interest of public safety.

Ms. Michelle Kleckler, Division Director

DR. RANDALL MILLER SHARES LEADERSHIP THOUGHTS WITH EXECUTIVE TEAM

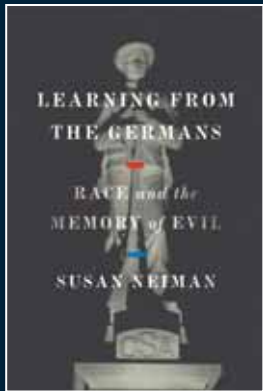

COLLABORATIONS AND RELATIONSHIPS

Events and happenings in life are noteworthy benchmarks along the way, but life's successes more often than not are the result of collaborations and relationships with others. The relationships and friendships we build create our individual networks that can serve us our entire lives.

Depending upon at what stage you are in life, you may be either on the giving or receiving end of the very special relationship of mentoring. The people I know who have had any degree of success in life willingly talk about how they have benefited from at least one mentor if not several. Those of us who have had mentors are most likely to return the favor by mentoring others. It is a form of 'paying forward' the special gift of caring.

The joy and satisfaction that comes from those mentor-mentee relationships are some of the richest that life can offer. They might result in some form of personal or professional collaboration that adds value to both participants. These are meaningful relationships that enrich our lives, give us something to look forward to, and make us better people.
