National Library Week, running from April 6-12, is an annual celebration highlighting the valuable role libraries and library professionals play in transforming lives and strengthening our communities. The theme this year is "Drawn to the Library," celebrating the diverse ways people utilize libraries for research, study, exploration, entertainment, connection, and growth.

Website Redesign Taskforce

"The interactive pages and search have been quite useful."

"Navigating the site on my phone was simple and easy to use."

"It's always exciting to see hard work and creative vision come together, and your site is a fantastic representation of your focus on student success and support. The design looks modern and clean, and the visual makeover is impressive."

We continue to receive positive feedback on the District's redesigned website, with users highlighting improved navigation, the response design and easier access to information. The Website Redesign Taskforce regularly reviews site analytics to identify opportunities for ongoing enhancements. From January 1 – March 31, 2025, the website had 732,739 page views with visitors from 131 different countries.

Study Abroad Educational Program Reflection

Learning Thai was Fun and Engaging: Like ABC!

Learning a new language can be challenging, and Thai is no exception. Words take on feminine or masculine genders, giving the same word a different meaning. For example, à-run sà-wàt means "Good morning," while laa-gàawn means "Goodbye."

Through WCCCD's Study Abroad Program to Thailand in Fall 2024, students applied language skills in real-world settings—enhancing their comprehension through classroom learning, interactions with locals, and participating in cultural traditions.

WCCCD's Study Abroad Program provides students with:

1. Quality academic experiences
2. Cultural immersion and exchange
3. Lifelong service learning
4. Character development

DR. RANDALL MILLER'S CORNER

Shining the Light on...

James Jackson

James Jackson has been instrumental in creating one of the largest criminal justice programs in Michigan at WCCCD. He accomplished that and gives great credit to Dr. Ivery for his support in assembling his team.

Professor Jackson started at WCCCD in the early 1970's just after becoming a police officer in Detroit. He learned that the District was starting a Criminal Justice Program and was asked if he would like to be part of it. He did and began as a part-time instructor, rising through the ranks to become a full-time instructor after retiring from the Detroit Police Department.

Mr. Jackson became chairman of the Criminal Justice Program and has taught in the Caribbean, West Africa, and around the United States. He has done work for Michigan State University and Wayne State University, where he taught part-time.

His significant achievement has been assembling one of the best faculties in the country. The faculty members have great credentials and impressive practical experience, including former chiefs of Detroit and other police departments, the county executive, the Chief Judge of the District Court, numerous attorneys and judges, former Directors of the Michigan State Police, the CEO of Public Safety at UM, and the CEO of Public Safety at the Airport Authority.

Mr. Jackson believes the Criminal Justice Department has touched the lives of many people who ended up working in the field including several Chiefs of Police for Detroit and neighboring communities. Historically, WCCCD has been the largest producer of minority corrections officers in Michigan.

Mr. Jackson has worked on projects such as, curriculum, assessment, the college's art galleries, accreditation and other initiatives.

In the Mail...

"I hope this message finds you well. I want to take a moment to express my deepest gratitude for the incredible opportunity to speak at yesterday's event. It was truly an honor to be part of such a meaningful and inspiring gathering.

I know events like these take immense dedication and effort to organize, and I am in awe of how beautifully you brought everything together in such a short amount of time. The seamless execution and uplifting atmosphere are a testament to your leadership and commitment to fostering a space for meaningful dialogue and learning.

What made the experience even more remarkable was the audience. Their energy, enthusiasm, and thoughtful engagement left me profoundly inspired. It was a privilege to share my voice, but it was their participation that truly made the moment unforgettable.

Thank you once again for inviting me, for making me feel so welcome, and for all the hard work you put into creating such an impactful event. I am deeply appreciative of the opportunity and will carry the inspiration I felt with me."

With heartfelt appreciation, Monica Morgan
