District Police Authority

Collaborative Partnership

“No Kid Without a Christmas” is the heartfelt promise made by Goodfellow News, and over the past few months, the District Police Authority is stepping in as Santa’s helpers. They have been hard at work bringing that promise to life. Officers have helped outfit, dress, and pack hundreds of dolls in preparation for the holiday season. These gifts will be distributed at the end of November and beginning of December. It was truly an “all hands on deck” effort, with valuable support from the sewing class, kudos to them!

Division of Student Services

Office of Outreach and Recruitment

WCCCD partnered with Detroit Association of Black Organizations (DABO) to provide free classes to the Detroit community.

WCCCD staff spent the weekend in Hart Plaza at the Ribs and Soul event, reaching the community, answering questions, and helping students apply.

WCCCD participated in the 2025 Young Professionals Conference at Huntington Place, hosted by Detroit Wayne Integrated Health Network. The Outreach and Recruitment team shared program information with Grow Detroit's Young Talent (GDYT) participants, highlighting WCCCD's academic offerings—associate degrees and dual enrollment options. This direct engagement supported our partner DWIHN's goal to foster Detroit's youth workforce.

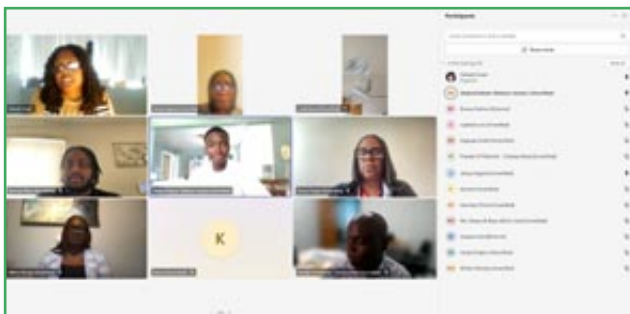

STUDENT SUCCESS SPOTLIGHT

"I was a student who had never even sewn a button before this program, and now I can make full gowns from start to finish. Thanks to the expertise of teachers like Professor Olajumoke, I have gone from just a student with a dream to a designer with the skills to realize my vision. If not for the scholarship offered by the TRIO Program, I would have seriously struggled to afford all the supplies needed to create and design projects for each class. I cannot emphasize enough how important a Program like TRIO is to a student like me who will be a first-generation college graduate."

Daniella Captain, is an extraordinary student balancing a demanding schedule with commitment. She is pursuing a Fashion Design degree and has a 4.0 GPA. She participates in the TRIO SSS program, Phi Theta Kappa, the Student Executive Council, and the Federal Work-Study program at District Student Services. Also, she provides full-time care for her 96-year-old grandmother. Daniella exemplifies resilience.

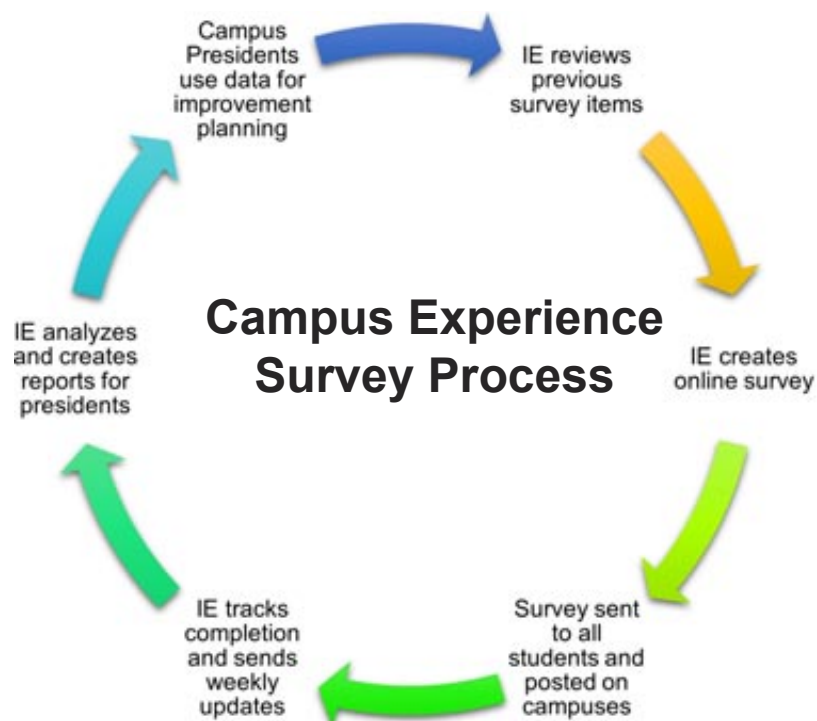

Federal Work Study

The FWS Office held their Fall 2025 Virtual Job Fair. Students were able to speak about their skills, past experiences, and future endeavors. Organizations were able to share key information about their offerings, while also having dialogue with the students about their interests.

Institutional Effectiveness

The Division of Institutional Effectiveness and Research partners with Campus Presidents to implement surveys to inform decision-making and continuous improvement. The Campus Experience Survey gathers WCCCD student perspectives to better understand how to improve overall learning experiences. The Campus Presidents use the data to complete their Student Satisfaction Inventory Action Plans in key focus areas. Below is the evaluation process and data points from Spring 2025:

Below you will find some sample data points from the Spring 2025 Campus Experience Survey implementation for each focus area.

Distance Learning Services	Campus Services	Admissions	Advising Effectiveness	Student Centeredness
Information regarding accessing blackboard and pin reset is easy to follow	There are adequate services to help students decide upon a career	I was able to meet with an advisor or Student Services staff to assist me with admissions	I understood how long it would take me to complete my academic plan for graduation	I have at least one classmate or family member that encourage and support my goals
