Homeland Security

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Homeland Security College Certificate Program is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of terrorism and various international, national, and historic examples to better understand this complex problem. This program focuses on converting theory and awareness into pragmatic strategies to help practitioners develop informed responses to the threat of terrorism. The program will place emphasis on the public, private, and legal responses to threats and specific skills designed to help students respond strategically to real situation emergencies.

Students will apply their knowledge and skills to develop specific plans at the local level to enhance public awareness and local security. The Certificate Program in Homeland Security is designed for managers, administrators, officers and those responsible for developing and implementing strategies and procedures in Homeland Security.

WHAT DO HOMELAND SECURITY PERSONS DO?

Homeland Security individuals are prepared to work in areas that include risk management and systems integration. Their training includes an understanding of security threats in public and private settings, and the legal, political, and ethical issues associated with homeland security.

WHERE DO THEY WORK?

Homeland Security Officers may work for the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, which includes the U.S. Customs Office, the U.S. Border Patrol and the U.S. Secret Service. Some special agents, such as those in the U.S. Border Patrol, may work outdoors in rugged terrain and in all kinds of weather.

PAY

The median annual wage for police and detectives was $65,170 in May 2019.

JOB OUTLOOK

Employment of police and detectives is projected to grow 5 percent from 2018 to 2028, as fast as average for all occupations. Continued interest for public safety will lead to new openings for officers; however, jobs may be competitive, depending on location.
